

PROFIL

Valentine Lequet is a French cinematographer working between Paris and London.

After two years of intensive art studies in preparation for the French "Grandes Ecoles", she joined the ESRA film school of Paris where she specialized in cinematography and obtained a Master's degree in Image Aesthetics at the University of Paris Sorbonne Nouvelle.

Beginning her work as a camera assistant on feature films and commercials, Valentine has since refined her vision as a working Director of Photography. She has also applied her expertise in light and image toward art films and visual installations. Throughout all her projects, she consistently strives for let the technique serve the emotion of the story.
